We are also indebted to Messrs. Bunny & Co., for the following new publications: THE BLOODSTONE: By Donold MacLeod : Charles Scribner,

Mr. MacLeon, if we mistake not, was formerly an editor in this city, and is considered to be a gentleman of respectable talents. We have not yet read his book, but find it very favorably noticed in several respectable journals.

UP THE RIVER: By W. T. Shelton: Charles Scribver, New York: 1858.

This is a very readable book, well printed and illustrated.

THE NASHVILLE DRAMATIC CLUB. BENEFIT OF THE POOR,-The Nashville Dramatic Club make their second appearance at the Adelphi on Tuesday evening next. On this occasion they will repeat, by request, the beautiful and classic tragedy of "Evadue," They will also perform, as an afterpiece, the operatic tragedy of "Bombastes Furioso." The "Dramatic Club" is composed of highly respectable and intelligent young men, who, on their first appearance, exhibited a fair share of histrionic talent. On the occasion of this, their second appearance, we expect to witness a very creditable performance. As the proceeds of the entertainment will be given to the suffering poor of the city, we need hardly say that we look for a crowded house. Let every benevolent man put aside a dollar for the occasion.

The medical faculty of New York are making an effort to induce the legislature to legalize dissection. It seems that while the medical colleges are required by law to teach anatomy, they are forbidden by another law to impart that knowledge in the only way in which it can be acquire -that is, by dissection. They ask that the bodie of all who die in prisons and alms houses be given to the colleges for anatomical purposes. The subject is much discussed in the newspapers, bu while admitting the necessity of the medical universities being provided with bodies, the feeling is against granting the prayer of the memorial.

THE SWISS BELL RINGERS.—There was another full and fashionable house at the Odd Fellows' Hall last night; and the beautiful painting of the Voyage to Europe appeared all the more levely when witnessed in connexion with the charming music of the bell-ringers. We repeat, that there has never been a finer entertainment in the city than that now spread at Odd Fellows' Hall.

William Chambers has returned from America with impressions of the country the most favorable. London is already placarded with announcements of the forthcoming volume of the Journal, and among the new features is a series of papers on "America as it is, not as it has been represented," by William Chambers. From the character of the man, a fair, impartial account may reasonably be expected. It is well known that Sheridan Knowles, the play-writer and whilhom an actor, is now a Baptist ninister. He is lecturing vehemently against Popery; oddly enough, his son, Richard Brinsley

Knowles, a young man of learning and ability, has just become a Roman Catholic! Bentley has published a biography, literary and po'itical of Benjamin D'Israeli, by an unknown author. Contrary to custom, the writer makes his hero not a saint but a sinner, and one of the worst at that. Were the ex-Chancellor a highwayman it would be impossible to paint him in darker colors. His biographer is malicious, and pelts him with mud as did the Athenians Aristides. He unjustly represents him as a man devoid of honor, character, or honesty.-London letter. Some three years age, a man accompanied by a young lady to whom he was devotedly attached, stopped at Springfield while on a traveling excursion, and engaged a horse and buggy at one of the livery stables there, to be absent some days .-The stated number of days having gone by, and the young man failing to appear, caused the owners of the team to be alarmed and they immediately issued a hanbill headed "stop thief?" In the meantime the young man made his appearance, and judge of his surprise to find himself at once seized by the officers of justice. He endeavored to reason and expostulate with the owners of the horse and carriage, assuring them that he was wholly innocent of any criminal intentions, and offered them the fall price of the establishment to be released. All this proved unavailing to the hardened wretches.-Rather than suffer the ignominy of a trial, which would have resulted in the exposition of the young lady and his highly respectable connections, he is now in our State prison, sick and emaciated serving out his sentence which expires in about twenty days. He never disclosed the above facts until yesterday, nor would they even now be known, but for his being in such a debilitated state as to make him feel plarmed for his life. May his future day days be crowned with happiness. - Boston Post.

A universal cry after marriage is, "I wish we had the money now that we threw away at our wedding."-Er If that was the only cry after the perpetration of matrimony, we think married folks would be like the bay tree -ever green, never fruitful. - Cleve-aWe are not about to write any history (natural or un natural;) nor any especial geography; topography, or any other 'ography; nor on psycology, biology, or any other 'ology; nor on the stratum or substratum of an empire, and their component qualities. Our purpose is to hook you by the button-hole, and have a cray chat with you over many things which you have not seen, and many usure you ought to see, to take a dring, stranger, with you, and over it make you laugh at the matters that undo me laugh—in short, to have neither more nor less than a collequy about the sayings and doings of a great land." Price 50 cents. For sale by F. HAGAN.
